

The FCC should take no action which will reduce the effectiveness of the current Indiana Telephone Privacy Act. Since the law was enacted, the number of telephone solicitations has decreased from ten per week to none. That is exactly what I want. Any action which will weaken the Indiana law is a step backward.